

Now in its 12th Year Copper Saucepan Award for the Apprentice Chef of the Year 2018

Ellie Tuttle (Ceruttis) Winner and Reece Brady Temple (Holiday Inn) Runner Up with the Judges and the Mayor of Beverley - Beverley Food Festival 2017

Enter the 2018 Copper Saucepan competition now

Five excellent reasons for young chefs* to enter the HEYHA Copper Saucepan Award for the Apprentice Chef of the Year 2018:

The competition is free to enter, with a £350 cash prize and the trophy for the winner and £150 for the runner-up, with one day's experience for both finalists working alongside Colin McGurran, Chef Patron, in the kitchen of the award-winning Winterringham Fields Restaurant.

1. Invaluable competition experience at East Riding College and the Beverley Food Festival
2. Media coverage for the winner and the winner's establishment
3. Opportunity to show skills and talent at an established and acclaimed, award winning Food Festival
4. Unique experience to work alongside Colin McGurran and Gaz Bartram
5. Being a Finalist or winning looks great on any C.V.

It's easy to enter, just send a three-course dinner menu featuring the best of local food with either the starter or main course featuring local pork or seafood, by 5th August to the address shown below. You will receive notification within one week of submitting your entry whether you have been successful and then go forward to the Cook Off at East Riding College on the 20th August.

Two finalists will then be chosen to take part in the final at Beverley Food Festival on Sunday 7th October 2018

Take this opportunity to shine!

Applicants to have less than 4 years of experience in the hospitality industry.
